

LABEL ANNUAL REPORT 2021

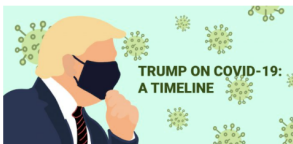

| Men are Victims of Sexual Assault Too

Throughout the year, Label has grown as a publication through its content and contributors. This year, the amount of articles published has doubled over the amount posted in the 2019/2020 academic year (over a 250% increase!). This is an outstanding achievement and it could not have been done without the number of new and existing volunteers as well as the team of Editors and Designers on the Label Committee.

Even though this year has proved challenging due to the pandemic and not being able to meet up with one another, Label also received contributions from other committees such as CASH and Green Pea; who gave a helping hand in creating eye-opening and original content for students and the public.

| Black History Month: Black representation in British politics

| "The only positive thing about him": A Timeline of Donald Trump and Covid-19

The Design team at Label have also created some amazing headers for our articles which showcase the talent of volunteers who have contributed to the creative aspect of Label as well as the numerous volunteers which have dedicated their time and artistic creativity in helping the Designers at Label.

I hope that as a publication, Label will continue to create original and unique pieces which captivate and bring in even more readers.

Emily

Label Editor 2020/2021